Job Overview

This role comes with the opportunity to work solely within [SITE], across two or more of the HSH secure environments, or as a split role between Hanham Health (community practice) and within [SITE]. It is an ideal opportunity for a GP seeking a portfolio career with unique, exciting and hands on opportunities and workload.

Prospective GPs are invited to any of our visit our sites at any stage of the application or recruitment process. A substantial induction process is offered to all new GPs, tailored to individual needs and preferences, prior to working unsupervised. Bespoke training is also provided and available. Prior experience of working within a prison setting is not required.

General Practitioners (GP) have an important role in looking after patients in their homes and within the communities where they live; this includes patients residing within the prison estate. The GP is part of a much wider team whose role includes promoting, preventing and initiating treatment.

The GP will deliver sessions within the prison establishment(s); sessions include morning, afternoon and evening and are variable as part of a shared rota system. Where possible, individual preferences will be taken into account and accommodated for within the rota planning process.

The GP is responsible for treating common medical conditions, chronic illness, acute illness or injury and referring patients to secondary care and other medical services for urgent and specialist treatment. They will focus on the health of the whole patient; combining physical, psychological and social aspects of care.

The GP supports the holistic care of patients by working as part of a multidisciplinary team (MDT), combining advanced clinical practitioners, nurses, allied healthcare professionals, mental health and substance misuse key workers, pharmacists, psychiatrists and community care providers. The GP participates in complex case reviews to discuss and plan joint approaches to co-ordinate packages of care for patients.

The GP supports the clinical management of substance misuse detoxification, including prescribing and review, following completion of the RCGP Certificate in the Management of Drug Misuse (Part 1) for Secure Environments.

The GP will attend to patients with urgent, life-threatening conditions, should this occur whilst they are on duty. In these cases, the GP will work with the nursing team to provide life-saving treatment until an ambulance and further help arrives.

The GP works as part of a team of Custodial Doctors, meeting regularly to discuss complex cases, learning and outcomes and for peer support.

The GP will provide a highly specialist resource to other healthcare staff, patients and carers and have active involvement in clinical governance and effectiveness activities.

The GP works to organisational standards and guidance, and within their code of professional conduct at all times; ensuring that their practice is grounded in evidence based theoretical and practical knowledge.

The role includes access to highly sensitive information and the post holder should, therefore, ensure that they conduct their work with the strictest confidence and comply with information governance, data protection and record keeping policies at all times.
